PREFACE

The first District Gazetteer of Balasore (old spelling was Balasore) was written by J. D. Malley and published in 1907. Since then, significant political, social and economic changes have taken place in the country. In the context of fast-changing times, the general scheme and contents of the present series of district gazetteers have been adapted to the needs of the altered conditions. Hence, the present series of gazetteers are not mere revisions of old gazetteers but a comprehensive account of various aspects of the district.

Historically, strategically and culturally Balasore is one of the most important parts of Orissa. In fact, till the British occupation of Balasore in 1813 it was the key to Orissa. Innumerable traces of its rich and military strongholds available from Gupta period to the 13th century A.D., testify the military significance of this border

Its proximity to the presidency of Bengal, facility of communication through the sea coast canal since 1867, the establishment of modern press, publication of the Orissa Samajik Bahika as early as 1865, the initiation of modern education, etc., led the growth of consciousness in a more conspicuous manner. PREFACE

Principal,
F.M. (Auto) College Balasore

The first District Gazetteer of Balashwar (old spelling was Balasore) was written by 'L.S.O.' Malley and published in 1907. Since then, significant political, social and economic changes have taken place in the country. In the context of far-reaching changes, the general scheme and contents of the present series of district gazetteers have been adapted to the needs of the altered conditions. Hence, the present series of district gazetteers are not mere revisions of old gazetteers but a comprehensive account of various aspects of the district.

Historically, strategically and culturally Balashwar is one of the most important districts of Orissa. In fact, till the British occupation of Balashwar in 1803 it was the cockpit of Orissa. Innumerable traces of forts and military strongholds available from post-Gupta period to the 19th century A.D., testify the military significance of this border district.

Its proximity to the presidency of Bengal, facility of communication through the Orissa coast canal since 1886, the establishment of modern press, publication of Balashwar Sambad Bahika as early as 1868, the initiation of modern education, etc., aided the growth of consciousness in a more conspicuous manner. The role of Fakir Mohan Senapati, Radhanath Rai and their compatriots for development of Oriya literature, for reformative movement of Oriya literature, and for cultural resurgence, and the institution of National Society in 1878 and subsequent establishment of Balashwar Town Hall paved the way for a wider awakening in the general syndrome of Indian era of movement for independence. Balashwar also joined from the beginning in the Oriya movement for unification of all the Oriya-speaking territories under one administration. The impact of the philosophy of violence for independence movement had had its manifestative results in Balashwar during the period of the First World War and the role of Jatin (Bagha) became an episode of all India fame.

By the time of Gandhiji's Civil Disobedience Movement, Balashwar was in the forefront of disobedience movement against the British Raj. The historic Salt Satyagraha at Inchudi earned for Orissa a national fame. The most distinctive feature of Balashwar's role in the national movement was the active participation of the common men and women in great numbers irrespective of caste and creed. It is this remarkable phenomenon which accounts for the episode of Eram where during the crucial days of the Quit India movement the tragedy of the nature of Jallianawallabagh was enacted, killing the largest number of men at any single place in any single repressive measure in the whole of India. Eram stands as a testimony to the spirit of national struggle which the common people of the district had developed through the final phase of the Gandhian movement.

While Balashwar entered the final phase of the freedom struggle, a revolutionary upsurge in the princely state of Nilagiri for elementary civil rights for the down-trodden people gave a signal for the movement all over the Garhjats and drew the attention of national leadership as a crucial feature of the liberation movement. It began the process of integration of the feudatory states with the Union Government of India in which Orissa, particularly Balashwar, led the way for others in India.

Baleshwar, the cradle of Orissan renaissance, is not only rich in legacies of the modern period but also abounds in archaeological remains of the ancient period. Though a systematic exploration is yet a desideratum, the inscriptions, coins and other antiquities discovered so far throw considerable light on the political history, artistic achievements and cultural life of the people through centuries.

The district until recently had the distinction of having been called the 'Granary of Orissa' with stretches of green paddy fields, a network of rivers, blue hills, extensive meadows and an exciting beach. The sight of green expanse of paddy fields with patches of hamlets thickly shaded with trees has its serene appeal to the eye of an visitor. A popular health resort Chandipur on the billowing bay displays a unique aspect; the sea-water recedes kilometres away just to stage a come back after an interval. Presently, it has attracted the attention of the whole world for the successful experimentations of test ranges, such as, Agni, Prithivi, Akash, etc. The administrative headquarters, Baleshwar, is the principal town with remains of antiquarian interest. It was also "a great sea-town", as it is called in Bruton's account, "where to much shipping belonged and many ships and other vessels built". According to V. Ball, a famous Geologist, Baleshwar was probably the first place where modern Indian method of manufacturing iron was practised. Bhadrak is the chief commercial town of the district and famous for goddess Bhadrakali. The temple of Sainthia which contains a strip of the bedding of Sri Chaitanya is a relic of great sanctity for the Vaishnavities. At Paliabindha is a temple dedicated to Lord Biranchinarayan which indicates the efflorence of Sun worship in this area. Chandbali and Dhamara were the important ports of Orissa. Pipili was once the important port on the Orissa coast and contained settlements of Portuguese and Dutch. Historically, Jaleshwar is one of the most interesting places in the district with the remains of a large fortress. Poet Dinakrushna Das lived here about three hundred and a half century back. Near the village Tukaroi in 1575 A.D., occurred the great battle of Mughalmari. Raibania is famous for the ruins of an important old fort which protects Orissa from several foreign invasions. Gohiratikiri in Dhamnagar police-station saw the tragic fall of the last independent Hindu king, Mukundadeva, being murdered in the battle field by his treacherous generals and Orissa finally passed into the hands of the Muslim rulers of Bengal in 1568 A.D. At Kaupur, there is a hot spring called Debarkund which is regarded as sacred. Kuldih is a famous hunting ground high above the hills amidst the reserved forest. Nilagiri is famous for the manufacture of stonewares and utensils. Remuna is famous for Krishna worship. Chandaneswar and Aradi are famous Saivite centres of Orissa. Kupari, Ayodhya, Solampur, Khadipada, Kasba, Jayarampur and Abhana are the places of interest where distinct traces of Buddhism are still observable. Charampa, Pundal, Baleshwar town, Bhimpur and Jaleshwar were the important Jaina centres of the district. So, the stream of main Indian religions, such as, Hinduism, Buddhism, Saivism, Saktism and Vaishnavism flourished in this part of Orissa since early days.

The contribution of Baleshwar towards the growth and sustenance of Oriya language and literature is immense. In the mid-nineteenth century, when systematic efforts were worked out by some Bengalis to abolish the Oriya language altogether, the people of Baleshwar under the leadership of Fakir Mohan Senapati and with the august compassion of John Beames, the then Collector of Baleshwar, fought for preserving the identity of Oriya language. Fakir Mohan and Radhanath heralded a new age in Oriya literature and their mighty defence to Oriya language against heavy odds is a story by itself.

In the field of music, dance, drama and theatre, the district has unique contributions. Mughal Tamasa of Bhadrak area is a typical style of farce and satirical play on the decadent and sensuous habits of Mirzas.

In compiling this volume all available references which include various survey and settlement reports, Annual Administrative Reports on the Nilagiri ex-state, Feudatory States of Orissa by L.E.B. Building: Fakir Mohan College evolved in the Balasore Zilla School premises in 1944, with the college running from 7 A.M to 11 A.M., the school from 11 A.M to 4 P.M. The Heritage British Building formed the core of the institution till 1948-49 when at the back of the Heritage Building an asbestos building was raised for science laboratory and classroom purposes. In 1962-63, the Physics Lecture Theatre (PLT) and Chemistry Lecture Theatre (CLT) building were raised. The New Gallery Block was constructed in 1979-80. The Bhuyan Building complex which housed the Commerce Block and the New Boys' Hostel etc. were acquired from the members of the family of A.S. Khan in 1977. The New Women's Hostel premises which earlier housed the quarters of the Inspector of Schools and his staff has been handed over to the college. The Library Block was raised in 1987.

The front Old Block with British architecture still forms the core of the college with its old architectural beauty and design. Incidentally, the building as it looks today was not constructed like that. The building was given a 'T' shape with running class rooms and the Hall. This structure was made primarily to house Zilla School science classes and library. It may be mentioned that prior to this, the school functioned in a building located in the present college playground. This building was completed in 1870 at a cost of Rs.85,933.00. The opening ceremony of the 'T' shaped building was performed by Mr. J. F. Grunning, C.I.E., the Commissioner of Odisha on 6th July, 1918. Subsequently, the old building located the playground which was also called 'Usha' field (after poet Radhakanta Ray's great work 'Usha') was demolished and two new wings were added to the 'T' shaped building giving it an 'E' shape as it presently looks. This 'E' shape building raised at an expense of Rs.1,17,414.00 was formally opened in 1930 by Mr. G. E. Faucus, C.I.E., the then Director of Public Instructions, Bihar and Odisha. While the main block of the College was made in 1918, the hostel with Superintendent's quarters was constructed in 1913-14. This hostel building was called the South Hostel and in the year 2008-09., it was converted into the P.G. Block of the College.

The infrastructural expansion has got a boost in 1998-1999. With the M.P. LAD of Rs.4.26.000/- from Kharabela Swain, former M.P. of Balasore, donations from old students, members of the staff (teaching and non-teaching) and the surplus P.L. funds of the college, the Subama Samaraki Bhawan was completed at an expense of Rs.15,00,000.00 in 2002. In the year 2002, the present post office building was constructed with M.L.A. LAD of Jiban Pradip Dash, M.L.A., Balasore and donations of old students at a cost of Rs. 1.75.000/- In the same year construction for the the Bigyan Bhawan began with the M.P. LAD of Kharabela Swain, MP and the donations of old students. The three-storied building was completed in 2006 at total cost of Rs.35,00,000.00. In 2011-12 the asbestos thatch of room No. 24, 25, 27, 28 & 30 was removed and concrete slab was put in place.

The structure with an asbestos roof that housed the Chemistry and Physics pass laboratories was declared unsafe by the PWD and was demolished in 2019. A SC hostel with an intake capacity of 100 was added to the college infrastructure in the same year. Two more hostels- one for girls and one for boys with an intake capacity of 400 and 300 respectively will be made operational from the next academic session. A G+5 Academic Block and G+3 commerce block are under construction. The college field has also been renovated at a cost of Rs.67 Lakhs. The Library of the college was further augmented by the addition of the extension block.
